

OVINGTON'S

312-314 FIFTH AVENUE
Near 32nd Street, New York City

"The Gift Shop of Fifth Avenue"

FOR many years, Ovington's has been a Fifth Avenue institution — a shop which three generations of New Yorkers have known and respected. From its small beginnings, back in the days when Polk was president, it has grown and grown, but in its growing it has never lost its distinctive, helpful and friendly quality.

Today, the basis of its remarkable prestige is this—that it has never forgotten that its first success was based upon giving sound values.

Greater and more alluring than ever before, Ovington's today is a veritable treasure house of Christmas gifts. Under its roof-beams will you find thousands of thoughts, remarkable more for their individual excellence than for their mere number. And today, as in the beginning, the doctrine of sound values holds sway.

NEW things from old lands! Ovington's offers many quaint things of old world flavor, things not obtainable in the past, and scarce enough, even in the present.

MAKE out your Christmas list, come down to Ovington's and, in half an hour, you will be delighted to discover that most of your Christmas problems have solved themselves!
